Squiers Seems Certain Of Bench Nomination

Kings County Republican Committee Expected to Put Him on Court Slate

When the unofficial convention of the Kings County Republican Committee meets July 24 in Kismet Temple one of the big places to be filled on the slate, that of Supreme Court Justice, grand master of Masons, said last night:

"I am withholding the circulation of my petition in Kings County so it may be distributed through the regular organization channels along with the petitions of those candidates for county offices who may be indorsed at the conference to be held on July 24. I have received most generous pledges of support from leaders and others throughout the entire judicial district and look for a united support of the enrolled members of my party at the primaries."

Until within the last fortnight there were two powerful rivals opposing Squiers for the nomination—Senator Charles C. Lockwood and Meier Steinbrink, of Brooklyn. Both have withdrawn in favor of Squiers, and other men powerful in the councils of the party have come out openly in favor of the Squiers candidacy.

Bills Offered in House

To Reduce Living Costs WASHINGTON, July 12.—Bills designed to reduce the high cost of living weer introduced to-day by Representatives Upshaw, Democrat, Georgia, and Campbell, Republican, Kansas.

Mr. Upshaw's measure would direct Secretary Baker to sell surplus foodstuffs of the army, amounting to $121,000,000.

The designating petitions for Mr. Squiers were placed in circulation early last week, and are being distributed by the regular Republican organizations in the Boroughs of Richmond and Queens, and in Nassau and Suffolk counties, which, with Kings, comprise the Second Judicial District. The petitions will not be circulated in Brooklyn until after the convention in Kismet Temple.

And in the meantime, if you have any poet or artist in your midst, treat him as kindly and generously as you have treated me."

"I have quite a few creditors in Lawrence," confessed Kemp in a letter to the editor of "The Journal-World." The letter was published with his advertisement.

"I'm not ashamed of my debts, though long outstanding, for I've always meant to pay them," the poet continued. "There is Weiderman, who trusted me for ice cream and sodas, and there is Billy Hudson, of the Eldridge House, whom I think I owe for a few meals. And then I owe as sum to Boney Lowne, who used to run the Farmers' Restaurant. He trusted me when I was on the bum entirely and helped me keep going the first two years I spent at the university.

Mr. Campbell proposed cooperation by government departments in producing and distributing footdstuffs.

I want to tell you that I'll never forget those friends of mine in Lawrence who stuck by me when I was unknown and looked upon by many of my fellow citizens as a freak because I was after more than cent per cent in life."

Kemp. who left New York City for Saranac Lake yesterday, declared that his creditors in the Middle West have deluged him with letters in response to the ad. "Most of them write that they've chalked up what I owe them with their losses," said Kemp. "One fellow wrote: 'Never mind the debt due me, Harry. When you come back we're going to have a brass band waiting for you at the station and show you what a real Western welcome is like'."

An open letter to former Plattsburg men and others interested in universal military training in America has been sent out by the Military Training Camps Association, arging support for fits universal training bill shortly to be introduced in Congress by Senator George Chamberlain, of Oregon, and Representative Julius Kahn, of California.

The plan of instruction provided by the bill includes vocational as well as military training of youths of eighteen and nineteen, using the sixteen contonnents now belonging to the army as great schools for the youth of the country. Elementary instruction for illiterates would be provided. Naturalization would be automatically conferred on aliens undergoing the training, while those declining would be forever debarred from citizenship.

The main purpose of the bill is a large roserve of trained, young men in lieu of a great standing army, the Swiss plan being followed. On leaving the training camps the men would be organized territorially for ten years. During the first five years, as a first line reserve, they would be subject to periodical training, each period continuing not more than two weeks, with pay for the territorial reserve would be drawn from the training camps and for the territorial reserve would be drawn from the ranks of reserve officers. Many a would-be wise-guy who puts up a building, finds his original estimate exceeded by feet and yards. Then he begins to cut. Often he begins with the heating boiler, the very heart of the edifice. He puts in castiron instead of steel because it costs less. It is the old game of sacrificing quality for price.

Fatal-fatal blunder. It is followed by copious weeps and gnashing of molars. Cast-iron boilers are moulded. Cast-iron is subject to contraction and expansion. It's liable to bust loose any cold night when you need your heat most. And it often does bust loose.

And the Human Fambly, which is the consumer of heat, is getting dead wise to the fact. It is beginning to rent its flats on the basis of the heating boiler. Thousands are following the Kewanee All-Steel Smokeless Firebox Boiler because it guarantees a warm flat - and because it makes glorious Summer of a beastly Winter.

Cold nights have no more effect on it than a blazing match on a piece of asbestos. It keeps you snug and warm and cosy. It makes flats habitable and rentable. Why, say, the biggest ad any flat can have is that it is heated by a Kewanee Firebox Boiler.

Keep this in mind, you men who put money in buildings. The Human Fambly has got to occupy them. And the Human Fambly wants to be comfortable when Boreas is doing his worst. The heating plant is the heart of your building. It's either an asset or a liability. The Kewanee Firebox Boiler is the biggest asset you can buy. Think it over, and against the estate of the late Captain

Joseph R. De Lamar, issued a statement yesterday relative to the hearing on the claims before Referee Charles F. Brown, at which Miss Alice De Lamar, heiress of the financier, who left an estate valued at $30,000.000, testified.
The hearing took place Friday in Mr. Brown's office. There are seven claimants against the De Lamar estate who are suing to recover money invested at the captain's advice. They say the millionaire mine owner guaranteed them against loss. The claimants included Albert Morris Bagby, director of the Bagby morning musicals, who says he lost more than $100,000; Mme. Frances Alda, the singer; Adele Bueler and Marie L. Curtis.

Intended to Make Losses Good
Miss De Lamar, according to the Spence statement, testified that all the Claimants were close personal friends of the financier, and that Captain De Lamar either had made investments or advised them what stocks to buy. The heiress said, according to Spence, that his friends austained because of following his advice.

4. —the Great War might still be going on?

5. —the world's greatest battleship might be a helpless hulk? 6. -no airplane could fly a single mile? 7. -your shoes would always be unpolished?

All these and many more extraordinary things are to! by Reid Sayers McBeth in the absorbing indu-mal romance, "Oil, the New Monarch of Motion." Here you may learn how Tab-y-wans, a one-eyed Indian astride a wearied buckskin pony, followed the stone kicked by his mount and found a stagnant pool covered with a brilliant iridescence he called "the amile of the Great Spirit," and by collecting this, the first petroleum, laid the foundation for America's commercial supremacy.

If you are Doctor, Lawyer, Engineer, Banker or just plain "Man in the Street," you need to know about oil and the vast fortuges still being made from it.
